September 5, 2018 Betty Friedan, The Feminine Mystique

From a 2016 Amazon review: I've read many books in the area of history. And certainly, I've been conscious of the substantial difference between women's lives then when compared with now. But the depth and pervasiveness of this silent emotional suffering is something I lacked the consciousness to feel. The sensation of my eyes being opened to an emotional existence I was unaware of, is the same feeling I felt when in high school I read the Diary of Anne Frank.

September 19, 2018 Joseph Henrich, The Secret of Our Success: How Culture is Driving Our Evolution

Tracking clues from our ancient past to the present, Henrich explores how the evolution of both our cultural and social natures produce a collective intelligence that explains both our species' immense success and the origins of human uniqueness. The secret of our success lies not in our innate intelligence, but in our collective brains—on the ability of human groups to socially interconnect and learn from one another over generations.

We will discuss the first 10 chapters of the book at this meeting and the rest on October 3rd.

Free and Open to the Public. Newcomers welcome Anytime!
